
GIDAKIIMINAAN (Our Earth)

Ojibwe Geographic Place Names in the 1837 Ceded Territories of Minnesota and Wisconsin, the 1842 Ceded Territories of Wisconsin and Michigan and the 1836 Ceded Territory of the Michigan Upper Peninsula.

Map Production:
Esteban Chiriboga
Great Lakes Indian Fish and Wildlife Commission (GLIFWC)

GLIFWC Satellite Office
Land Information and Computer Graphics Facility (LICGF)
University of Wisconsin - Madison
Madison, Wisconsin

Database Support:
Patrick Mayotte and Jim St. Arnold
Great Lakes Indian Fish and Wildlife commission (GLIFWC)

GLIFWC Main Office
Chief Blackbird Center
Odanah, Wisconsin

Legend

- Named Places
- Named Lakes
- Named Rivers
- Lakes
- Rivers
- Great Lakes
- Tribal Land
- Ceded Territory Boundary
- County Boundary
- Known Ore Bodies
- Exploration Areas
- Mines

Acknowledgements.

Funded through a grant by the Administration for Native Americans (ANA), ACF, United States Department of Health and Human Services (HHS).

Ojibwe language expertise provided by Charles J. Lippert, Dana Jackson, Don Jones, Doug Sam, Dr. Bernard Peters, Joe Chosa, Mary Moose, Leonard Moose, Leon Valliere, Milan "Bob" Williams, Nancy Jones, Timm Severud and Robert Powless Sr.

We apologize for any location names that we might have missed or that might have a different name locally than what we have found. We also acknowledge that there are many dialects of Anishinaabemowin throughout the ceded territories, and because of this the names of locations might be spelled or pronounced differently in your region. Anishinaabemowin is a dynamic language and the dialect differences should be celebrated rather than denigrated.

Ceded territory and tribal reservation boundaries are representations and may not be the actual legally binding boundaries.

1 inch = 8.322352 miles

10 5 0 10 20 30 40 50 60 70 80 90 Miles